

Favourite Presenters Worksheet

Here's a list of some of my favourite presenters on TV and online from around the world and why? If you haven't heard of them get YouTubing – you may love 'em too!

Lottie's List of Fave Presenters:

Some of my favourites are English TV and BBC presenters because that's what I grew up with.

- ▶ For me David Attenborough is the king of documentary and a vocal genius, developed and became through discovering what worked for him. His timing and inflection deliver a message that is heard every time, his gentle movements, but high energy, come right through the camera and almost demand you to pay attention to what he has to say. Just his voice has me every time... Same with the Welsh actor Anthony Hopkins – meeting him in the West End “Call me Tony” has never had such a ring to it! Stephen Fry MUST be on my top list too – again no pretence, smart and real...
- ▶ For sports I like females - Claire Balding, Sue Lawley and Gabby Logan - driven, sporty, attentive, absorbed, dedicated, strong-minded, unassuming demeanour, rapt attention focused but fun ladies.
- ▶ Interviews – Oprah and Jimmy Fallon in the US, Graham Norton, Alan Carr, Jonathan Ross, Claudia Winkleman, Zoe Ball in the UK all make listening skills look easy. They easily get their guests to open up and share private information by putting themselves down in a self-deprecating, but fun way. They have a great way of inclusion with guests and the audience and keep energy going.
- ▶ Watch kids TV presenters – BBC Newsround / Dick and Dom / Channel 4 young presenters - the most fun kids TV presenters, always challenging the norm and having the guts to go for it, having a blast and stuffing up with confidence - totally Flawsome dudes!
- ▶ Comics Tina Fey and Amy Poehler, Adam Hills, Michael McIntyre, Dara O'Brien, Sarah Millican and comedy shows like “Good News Week”, “10 O'clock Live”, “The Last Leg” - comics are often liked as presenters and hosts, purely because they are willing to do and say what many of us would never have the confidence to! THINK... who works the hardest to make something look like they've never said it before and it's just popped in to their minds... Yes Comics are the masters of being #Flawsome.
- ▶ In the USA we have massive global super-stars Ellen, Letterman, Leno, Conan O'Brien.
- ▶ Online – take your pick! Some of my faves are: James Wedmore, Steven Washer, Gideon Shalwick, David Walsh, James Framko, David Hyner, Dale Beaumont, Shelley Taylor-Smith, Marie Forleo, Mari Smith, Neen James, Ciara Conlon, Krishna De... For the next gen – Zoella and Alfie Deyes, Micheal Gebben AKA Gebbs, and for the new gen screenagers, check Eric Lassard one of the world youngest motivational speakers and TaliaJoy18, who sadly passed away from her cancer in 2013, but her make-up tutorials for one so young are inspiring for her energy...
